GREAT MARK DOWN SALE

—OF—

CLOAKS!

Our sale has been a great success. We have sold lots of Cloaks and have yet to hear one person say they were disappointed in our prices. All have been satisfied. Why? Simply because we have done as we always do, just as we advertised. People have learned that when we advertise a mark-down, the mark-down is there every time, and that is why they come to see goods which we advertise.

We Have Many Splendid Bargains Left, and will continue the same EXTREMELY LOW PRICES a short time longer. Those who come first will have the best assortment to select from. Come in the forenoon if possible, and avoid the crowd later in the day.

There was quite a large party from this city who drove to Orono Monday evening and had supper and a dance in the Orono House. Two of Bradbury's barges were needed to carry the party and they returned at a late hour after a most enjoyable time.

The frame of the sheds on the Bangor and Boston Steamboat Company's wharf is up and the work of boarding it is going on rapidly. These sheds will not interfere to any extent with the business on the wharf, as plenty of space is left clear between them and the wharf so that they can move about without any trouble.

Mr. Charles D. Brown has gone to Dark Harbor and taken the lumber for the finishing of the new hotel at that place. It is the intention to finish it as soon as possible and Mr. Brown took a crew with him, who will do the work as rapidly as consistent with good workmanship, probably getting it done in about three months.

Mr. R. B. Dunning is making preparations for housing ice. He has the refusal of the Treat wharf in Hampden and if he decides to put up any ice, shacks will be built on the wharf and about 4,000 tons will be cut. It is a very convenient location for the business and good ice can be obtained from the field near it. The work will probably begin next week.

Life is full of "ups and downs," and the young man who skated so gracefully over the glassy surface of the Penobscot and exhibited his powers as a fancy skater, felt that he had met with the "ups" until, when doing a backward stroke, his heel collided with one of the numerous stakes and he measured his length on the hard ice, when he must have concluded that he had to experience some of the "downs" likewise.

The American Ice Company, at the ice houses in East Hampden, are preparing for larger operations than they have ever carried on before. At present the small elevator is running in ice at as rapid a rate as they can house it, but farther down the river, at the lower end of the stacks erected last summer, they have put up another elevator over seventy-five feet tall, which will be started, if completed, this week and will fill the stacks in a short time. STATE NEWS.

William G. Beale, new president of the Chicago Board of Education, is a native of Maine and a graduate of Bowdoin, class of '77. His name has been prominently mentioned as candidate for the judge of Cook county, Illinois probate court.

Thomas A. Deblois of Portland was one of the witty Maine lawyers of whom interesting stories are told. At one time Judge Nicholas Emery, who was particularly sensitive to jokes at his own expense, had repeatedly rebuked Deblois for alleged departure from the rules of propriety. He being specially pointed at one time, the counsellor retorted: "I beg your honor's pardon. Your honor is right and I was wrong, as your honor usually is."

Exports from Portland last week were valued at $210,482.80. They consisted of 32,450 bushels of peas, 10,000 barrels apples, 4850 sacks flour, 1,408,450 pounds bacon, 22,400 pounds oatmeal, 382,440 pounds cheese, 2860 pounds butter, 32,400 pounds lard, 21 cases organs, 49 cases leather, 4 cases hammers, 15 cases machinery, 12 cases emery wheels, 38 cases sundry. The imports were 2160 boxes tin plates, 50 casks beer, 1 case glass, 6 cases jars.

The young ladies of the graduating class at Colby have taken a step that must be regretted by all lovers of the picturesque. They have voted to take no part in the Class Day exercises of the next Commencement. They didn't enjoy the spectacle made by their sisters in mortar-board caps and black gowns, last year.

The building committee and architect of the new addition being built on the Insane hospital made a thorough inspection of the work on Saturday, and found it progressing finely. The plasterers are at work on the second building, and will probably complete their task this week. [illegible]

The Magazines.

The midwinter (February) Century is notable among other things for the final installment of the Lincoln biography. The chapters include the Capture of Jefferson Davis, The End of Rebellion, and Lincoln's Fame. Two poems on Lincoln follow the close of the life (one by Stuart Sterne and the other by James T. McKay,) and supplementary papers on the Pursuit and Capture of Jefferson Davis, by General Wilson, who commanded the Union cavalry, and by William P. Stedman, of Company B., who was an eye witness.

The frontispiece of the number is the enlargement of a small full-length photograph of Ralph Waldo Emerson, taken about 1859. The portrait is a very characteristic one, and gives the appearance of Mr. Emerson before a lecture audience. As an accompaniment to this picture there is a striking paper made up of Emerson's talks with a college boy.

In this number is begun the publication of the artist La Farge's letters from Japan, with illustrations prepared by the author.

Two extremely timely papers are on what Milton calls The Realm of Congo. The first describes a trip made by the States Commissioner, Tisdel, in 1884, and the second gives an idea of the Congo River of to-day. The latter is written by E. J. Glave, one of Stanley's former officers, who is mentioned several times in Stanley's last book.

Recent visitors to the French capital will be especially interested in Miss Balch's account, called A Corner of Old Paris, of a visit to the Musee des Archives. This article is profusely illustrated with facsimiles of signatures of famous Frenchmen, and by copies of old prints.

In the way of discussion is Professor Thorpe's paper in which he gives his reasons for thinking that Washington and Montana have made a mistake in their Constitutions; and Commissioner Roosevelt's defense of the Merit System versus the Patronage System.

Joseph Jefferson devotes a large part of the current installment of his autobiography to his reminiscences of Edwin Forrest of whom four portraits are given,—two of Forrest off the stage, and two in character. In addition to this Jefferson describes his own first visit to London and to Paris.

Professor Fisher, in the third paper of his series on The Nature and Method of Revelation, describes the differentiating of Christianity from Judaism, and devotes a good deal of space to the work of the Apostle Paul. Professor Fisher says that Paul took a stand at Jerusalem like that which Luther took at Worms. He adds that but for Paul there would have been no Luther.

The Fiction of the number consists of Mrs. Barr's Friend Olivia, Mr. Stockton's Merry Chanter, Mr. A. A. Hayes's Laramie Jack, and How Sal Came Through, by Mr. Edwards, the author of Two Runaways.

Pictures of several newly discovered terra-cottas illustrate an article by Charles de Kay, entitled A Side Light on Greek Art.

Among the poems of this number is a characteristic piece by James Whitcomb Riley, illustrated by Kemble, entitled The Old Band. Other poems are by Richard Henry Stoddard, Orelia Key Bell, Walt Whitman, Clinton Scollard, S. M. Peck, Virginia F. Boyle, and J. A. Macon. [illegible]

An Egg With Windows.

OBSERVING THE PROGRESS OF INCUBATION THROUGH A PIECE OF GLASS.

A French scientist who removed the shell on either side of an egg, without injuring the membrane, in patches about the size of the diameter of a pea, and snugly fitted the openings with bits of glass, gives the following report of the wonderful experiment: I placed the egg with the glass bull's-eyes in an incubator, ran by electricity, and revolving upon each [illegible] through and watching the change upon [illegible]

[illegible] seventh day.

At the 180th hour the bill first opened and flesh began to appear on the breast. At the 194th the sternum appeared. At the 210th hour the ribs had begun to put out from the back; the bill was quite visible, as was also the gall bladder. At the beginning of the 236th hour the bill had become green, and it was evident that the chick could have moved had it been taken from the shell. Four hours more and feathers had commenced to shoot out and the skull to become gristly.

At the 264th hour the eyes appeared, and two hours later the ribs were perfect. At the 331st hour the spleen drew up to the stomach and the lungs to the chest. When the incubator had turned the egg 335 times the bill was frequently opening and closing, as if a chick were gasping for breath. When 451 hours had elapsed we heard the first cry of the little imprisoned biped. From that time forward he grew rapidly, and came out a full-fledged chick at the proper time.—London Standard.

days' trial; that if I did not like it I need not pay anything, etc. But he could not prevail on me to change. I told him I had taken Hood's Sarsaparilla, knew what it was, was satisfied with it, and did not want any other. When I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was feeling real miserable with dyspepsia, and so weak that at times I could hardly

REMOVAL

To the Honorable Judge of Probate for the County of Penobscot.

The undersigned, Administrator of the estate of Rufus H. Sawyer, late of Bangor, in said County, deceased, respectfully represents that the goods and chattels, rights and credits of said deceased are not sufficient to pay his just debts and charges of administration.

Wherefore your petitioner prays your Honor to grant him power to sell by license at public or private sale, and convey the whole of the following described real estate of the deceased, (including the reversion of the widow's dower therein,) as the residue would be greatly depreciated by a sale of any portion, viz.:

His former homestead, situated on Essex street in said Bangor, about three miles from the Post Office, containing 190 acres of land with the buildings thereon, to satisfy said debts, expenses of sale, and charges of administration.

Said Real Estate is the same described in a Deed recorded in the Registry of Deeds of said County, Vol. 443, page 289.

BENJA. B. THOMAS,
Administrator.

PIANO-FORTES.

Attention is hereby called to the two beautiful upright piano-fortes in the drawing room of the Bangor House, from the well known establishment of M. Steinert & Sons, Boston. One of these is a "Steinway," a piano too well known to require special mention.

The other is a "Hardman," one of the most popular and favorite instruments of the day, being extensively sold in larger cities of this country and in Europe. They possess a full, rich and sympathetic tone, a powerful, elastic and responsive action, and possess wonderful durability and power of standing in tune.

These pianos will remain here through the month of February. Any one wishing to see them and get all information concerning them, can do so by appointment with Mr. George W. Oakman of Boston, who represents them. Mr. O. can be seen at Bangor House from 1 to 2 and after 6 P. M., daily.

A PANIC AVERTED

By Cool Demeanor During a Fire in an Asylum.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12. Fire in the Roman Catholic orphan asylum startled its 1,500 inmates this morning, but the admirable discipline prevented a panic and no one was injured. The total loss will foot up $40,000, half of which was caused by water. At 8.30 o'clock a policeman saw smoke issuing from the upper southeast corner of the south wing. He notified the sisters in charge and then sent out an alarm.

In the meantime the 1,500 children had been marshalled under the leadership of Robert Johnson, a boy who acts as colonel in the drills, and they marched out of the building and into the yard. Though startled at first the cool demeanor of the sisters reassured the youngsters. It took just two and one-half minutes to accomplish this. The cause of the fire is unknown. It started in the storage room and was probably due to an over-heated flue.

He refused, whereupon she shot him in the arm. The bullet was not removed and in consequence of the wound Isaac's fingers are paralyzed.

In the House of Commons to-day Sir James Fergusson, under Secretary of Foreign Affairs, stated that the papers concerning the Anglo-Portuguese dispute in relation to territory in South Africa would soon be presented to Parliament and they would serve to largely dispel the misapprehension which is causing the hostile feeling now being manifested against the English by the Portuguese. The relations between the British and Portuguese Governments he said are friendly.

LOCAL MATTERS.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Woman's Board of Missions, will meet in the vestry of the Hammond street church, this afternoon, at 3 o'clock.

The electric cars were put on very early yesterday morning, leaving Pearl street about six o'clock, to accommodate the men who work on the ice.

The regular monthly church sociable, which was to have occurred in the First Baptist parlors this evening, has been postponed on account of the death of J. S. Webb, Esq.

The type made us state, a few days ago, that the Y. P. S. C. E. convention would occur in Brewer on the 20th or a week later, when it should have read on the 26th, or a week later.

The Larkin street primary school now have a flag, which has been obtained by the united efforts of the scholars and their teacher, Miss Alice Robinson, and placed in a conspicuous position in the schoolroom.

Although it rained very hard for about an hour yesterday noon, it didn't dampen the ardor of the ice workers, however it might dampen their clothes, and they were rewarded for keeping diligently at their work by the breaking away of the clouds and the shining of the sun, which occurred the early part of the afternoon.

Preparations are going on rapidly for the Mardi Gras party to be given next Tuesday evening in City Hall by the Seniors of the High School. There will be tableaux and statuary, which give promise of being very fine, and well-known talent will take part, among others Mrs. Helen Winslow Potter and Andrews' Orchestra.

Sterns' new ice houses are going up as fast as possible, the new elevator being almost completed and it is expected that they will be able to begin running ice on Friday. Workmen are in great demand all along the river, the firms being constantly on the lookout for men enough to fill up their crews, who can't put in the ice as fast as wished.

A horse attached to a pung, which had been standing in West Market square, became frightened at the heavy ice teams going by yesterday morning and ran rapidly across the bridge but was caught before doing any damage. If it had been later in the day when the bridge was crowded with teams, there must have been a collision but fortunately it was too early.

STATE NEWS.

Androscoggin.

An imposter has been round Lewiston trying to collect water taxes, and the Lewiston Journal warns the citizens to pay their taxes to nobody but the clerk of the board.

Aroostook.

People in Presque Isle are somewhat alarmed because scarlet fever is raging very badly in that town and somewhat on the increase.

Portland hardware dealers are to form an association similar to the Paint and Oil Club, and will hold meetings and occasional suppers.

A company has been organized at Portland, with a capital of $50,000 to manufacture the hay rake recently invented by Mr. J. W. Collins of South Montville.

The theory is advanced that the recent numerous fires along the water front in Portland, are incendiary and are caused by some crank who thinks the city needs a fire boat and is taking this way of proving it. The Underwriter's Association, it is said, will ask Mayor Melcher to make an investigation, as they think there is something mysterious about the fires. Several other towns in the State believe they harbor a fire-bug. It seems to be time some of these gentlemen were discovered and called to account.

Hancock.

Bar Harbor is already getting ready for the coming season, and there is a probability that the prices for board and rents will not be so exorbitant as in former years.

One William Thompson was brought before the Ellsworth municipal court, recently, on a warrant for assault and battery upon one Jacob Altman, issued upon his complaint. The respondent, an athletic young man, is the son of the toll gatherer at the bridge connecting Mount Desert Island with the main land. The complainant, who is a peddler, crossed the bridge a few days before the assault, going on to the island, at which time he says he paid his toll over and return to the boy then in charge. When he returned young Tompson was in charge and demanded toll; the complainant declined to pay twice, whereupon the respondent assaulted him. The court imposed a fine of $5 and costs, which were paid. A civil suit has been since brought by Altman.

Kennebec.

Two geological surveys of this State have been made and though many of the specimens then collected have been lost, enough remains to make a very interesting collection at Colby University where they are now preserved. As many as could be identified have been labelled and placed in cases and a catalogue of them has just been issued by Prof. W. S. Bayley of Colby and F. P. King, a student in geology. The catalogue of itself is interesting as showing the variety and plentifulness of valuable stones and minerals in Maine.

Maj. O. E. Michaelis, chairman of the committee of arrangements during the recent encampment of the G. A. R. in Augusta, has written an open letter addressed to Gen. Luther Stephenson, Jr., governor of the Togus Soldiers' Home in which he says: Dear Comrade, under instructions from the executive committee of Seth Williams post, charged with the arrangements of the late department encampment, G. A. R., it is my pleasing duty to express to you our appreciation of your cordial, enthusiastic co-operation, a most potent factor in making the encampment the success it appears to be so generally considered. I am directed to thank you especially for the courtesy and hospitality extended by you at the home to our guests, Gen. Alger, Gov. Burleigh and many comrades. A more formal acknowledgment will be soon sent you.

A valuable addition to American historical literature is "The Beginnings of American Nationality," by President Albion W. Small of Colby University, issued by the Johns Hopkins University in its monthly publication. Here in compact form are gathered copies of many early public documents, so arranged as to give a continuous story of the growth of our National constitutional ideas, to show the constitutional relations between the Continental Congress and the colonies and states from 1774 to 1789. No better text book on the subject could be desired. Prof. Small deserves the thanks of all students of history for his valuable, painstaking work.

a Southport fishing schooner and we left Portland one afternoon for Boothbay harbor. A thick fog came in, but by the aid of the steam whistle at Seguin we made that part of the voyage in safety. Getting our bearing by the whistle, we headed for the Cuckolds. We ran until we thought we ought to have the reef, but we could not have it, and so we decided to go slowly until we found out where it was. We jogged along with our jib to the windward, listening for the bell, but we could not hear it. All at once we heard the thunder of the surf on the rocks. The vessel was brought around in double-quick time and headed off shore. We had just scraped by the breakers on the Cuckolds by about half the vessel's length. We heard nothing of the bell, though we must have almost run over it. The howling of the wind drowned the sound of it entirely. We scratched off that shore lively, and, sounding at intervals, got over under the lee of Damariscove, where we anchored until morning, when we run into the harbor. If we had not been perfectly acquainted with the coast, it would have been hard for us that night."

Sagadahoc.

With every blaze which appears in Bath the demand for a fire alarm system is repeated, a demand which is becoming so strong that there is little doubt but that one will be introduced there in the immediate future.

The many mysterious fires which have occurred in Bath during the past year have at last aroused public sentiment to a point where it is generally agreed that something must be done. That there is an incendiary in that city is hardly questioned by any one, and an effort is to be made to run him to ground. The firemen have noticed that at each of these causeless fires two men are invariably present, that they are always there the first, or among the first, spectators, and that they always take a deep interest in the discussions which arise regarding the origin of the blaze. This is all the evidence there is against them at present, but they are to be watched. It was only a few years ago that another fire-fiend was found to be in that city, and although direct evidence could not be obtained, circumstances of so suspicious a nature developed that he was forced to leave town. Heretofore the operations of these incendiaries have been confined to old houses or detached buildings, but their last attempt was on barns connected with a dwelling house, and only the accident that one of the inmates chanced to be lying awake at the time prevented the destruction of these buildings, and perhaps some loss of life.

The contract for an 1,100-ton schooner, to be built by the New England company for H. M. Randall of Port Richmond, brings the amount of shipping on hand for this year up to the high water mark of 1854, and promises to place 1890 in the lead for Bath's great industry. There are 27 vessels now in hand, some on the stocks and some simply contracted for as yet, ranging in size from 250 to 3,200 tons, and unless some unforeseen accident occurs, this summer will be one of great prosperity. This is aside from the iron ship building, which there is now scarce a shadow of doubt will be inaugurated here this spring. The indications are that the number of men who found employment along the river there last summer will be nearly doubled the coming season.

Washington.

Mrs. Jeanette Wallace, wife of Capt. E. L. Wallace, of Millbridge, writes home that while the bark Nellie Smith was at Baltimore in charge of the first mate, Capt. Wallace being absent in New York, Mrs. Wallace, who was alone in her stateroom, was awakened from sleep one night by a noise in the after cabin. On opening the door of her room she discovered a man wearing a mask in the act of robbing her trunk. She screamed and the robber advanced toward her with a revolver. Mrs. Wallace shrieked again which aroused the mate, who came to her assistance, and the man wearing the mask rushed out of the cabin on to the wharf and escaped, says the Machias Republican.

Several specimens of the umbrette, a bird of the stork species, have recently been added to the London Zoo. The bird is about eighteen inches long, its nest six feet in diameter. Moreover, with a luxuriousness unknown to other birds, the nest is divided into three compartments; one contains the eggs, one is the dining room, and the third a kind of lookout room.

A Philadelphia paper in telling that Henry M. Stanley, when he lived in Omaha in 1867, fell in love with an actress, who jilted him, remarks that now Stanley is a woman hater. This statement the great explorer's friends indignantly deny. Although Stanley is not a married man, he gives no evidence of hatred for the other sex. In fact, one of the best friends he has is a well-known Philadelphia woman, toward whom he entertains feelings of the greatest respect, if not of positive affection. Just before he plunged in the jungle in his search for Emin Bey the last message he sent to any one in the civilized world was to this loyal friend, and she was among the first to receive word from him when not long ago he reappeared, with his knowledge of the mysteries of the great African continent augmented by his recent discoveries.

Cancelled Stamps.

MAN IN NEW YORK CITY WHO IS ANXIOUS TO BUY MILLIONS OF THEM.

Has any one 1,000,000 stamps or 500,000 or 100,000? The man who has long been wanted by people who have saved up stamps, and who have jealously guarded them for years, has been found. He actually buys cancelled stamps by the million or the hundred thousand, says a writer in the New York Tribune. This cheerful news is given for the benefit of those who have cried out for information from time to time. But the man who buys them does not expect to see them redeemed, nor is he trying to relieve the sufferings of those who have carefully hoarded the "little green uns," the 3-cent stamp, and the 5-cent stamp, and the stamp of all kinds. But the seekers of wealth by stamp-selling are not likely to acquire great fortunes in this way. If they have only collected a few thousand, or even 100,000, they would better become discouraged and give it up, for the wholesale market price of cancelled postage stamps (unless for some particular reason they are extrinsically more valuable) is $100 a million. And that is $10 a hundred thousand.

"Why do I buy postage stamps?" said G. B. Calman, No. 299 Pearl street to a Tribune reporter. "Why, to sell them, of course."

"Who wants them?"

"If people did not want them I certainly should not buy them."

"Give one instance of reasonable demand for them."

"Well, there is a big cigarette company, which has a cancelled stamp on a picture which is given away with every box of cigarettes. The company uses millions of them."

"Another."

"A certain publication gives a stamp book for so many coupons, the coupons going with the papers."

"What kind of stamps do you buy?"

"All kinds."

"But who wants common green 2 cent stamps? They are not rare."

"Well, they are less common in western Bulgaria than in New York city. I buy stamps in all parts of Europe and bring them to America, and I ship American stamps to all parts of Europe."

"How many stamps do you buy a year?"

"I bought over 50,000,000 last year. For 15 years I have averaged about 20,000,000 a year."

"What becomes of them?"

"Think of all the shops where stamps are sold. A great many people make collections, and the stamps are all gathered for them in this way."

"What do you pay for stamps?"

"One hundred dollars for a million of any kind. I don't care what they are, I will take them. But I pay a great deal more for rare ones, of course. Sometimes people find old stamps which have been lying around for years. Frequently they are very valuable."

"Suppose you were to get an order today for 50,000,000 could you fill it?"

"Yes."

"Would you buy as many?"

"Yes."

"How do you handle them?"

"Those packing cases there are full of them. You see the stamps are assorted and put in envelopes and boxed for shipment."

"It would not pay, would it, to count 1,000,000 2-cent stamps; how do you manage that?"

"We can estimate them almost precisely by weight."

"So cancelled stamps really have a market value?"

"If they did not, as I said before, I should not buy them. Bring round a million or two in boxes or bales, and see for yourself. There are few things in these days that are allowed to go to waste." And he picked up a package of foreign stamps and gave them to the reporter as a nest egg.

SCROFULA

Is that impurity of the blood which produces unsightly lumps or swellings in the neck; which causes running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which develops ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or "humors;" which, fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption and death. It is the most ancient of all diseases, and very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can It Be CURED

The following toasts were responded to: "Abraham Lincoln," Senator Cullom; "The Republican Party," Congressman Dolliver; "Soldiers and Sailors," Senator Davis; "Education the Bulwark of the Republican Party," Rev. Dr. E. H. Virgin; "The New States," Senator Moody of South Dakota.

Mr. Depew proposed three cheers for Hon. J. G. Blaine, which were given.

A WILD SCENE

In the Canadian Parliament.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 13. [illegible] one of the wildest, and most [illegible] ever witnessed in the Canadian parliament. Strong accusations were exchanged. The government was assailed, the Speaker censured, and asked to leave the chair, and the premier charged with inciting civil war.

The Senate adjourned.

House.

The House met at 11 this morning in continuation of yesterday's session. The debate on the proposed code of rules was continued.

Mr. Allen, of Michigan, strongly supported the rules, especially that which permits the Speaker to refuse to recognize dilatory motions. He eulogized the recent action of Speaker Reed in this respect.

At 11.55 the House adjourned.

At noon the session of Wednesday began.

The journal having been read, Mr Boutelle, of Maine, asked unanimous consent for its approval. Objections came from the Democratic side and a rollcall was made necessary. The journal was approved; yeas 110, nays 1 (Mr. Buckalew), the Speaker counting 73 Democrats present and not voting. Mr. McCreary, of Kentucky, entered his emphatic protest against the new code and criticised the recent decisions of the Speaker. That officer had defied all precedents and had reversed the parliamentary decisions of nearly all the Speakers who had presided over the House. He inveighed against the new rules, asserting their effect would be to make the Congress of the United States consist of the Senate of the United States and Speaker Reed.

Mr. Cutcheon, of Michigan, supported the proposed rules, declaring they tended to facilitate business instead of obstructing it and give the control of the business of the House into the hands of the majority [illegible]

[illegible]

Mr. Cummings, of New York, said that up to the present session no person occupying the Speaker's chair in the House of Commons or the House of Representatives ever presumed to use his eyes, except as provided in advance by the House. Whenever the presiding officer used his eyes it had been after rules were adopted. Instead of counting the votes of the House as its Speaker, the presiding officer had invoked that votes from silent memory. No sanction of the rules could make this aught but an act of tyranny.

Mr. Chipman, of Michigan, warned the new members that one of the greatest faults of the new rules was that they gave too much power to the Speaker and the committees. It is now proposed to give to the Speaker larger control and the committees larger latitude. The old saying, "Kissing goes by favor," would find strong illustration under the proposed code.

Mr. Carruth, of Kentucky, said he and his Democratic colleagues had discovered the "general parliamentary law" was an unnatural tyrant, a god, and the Speaker was omnipotent, yet finding in one of the attributes of omnipotence—he was not the same yesterday, to-day and forever. (Laughter.)

Mr. Henderson, of Iowa, said that for the last few weeks the country had witnessed scenes unequalled in the history of the Government. The Speaker of the House backed by every Republican member [illegible]

In court the Duke refused his counsel not to defend him. He said he had learned to smile in honor [illegible] and respect the decision. If condemned by the court he was [illegible] of being [illegible] at the hands of 100,000 conscripts of his class who were more fortunate than he had been and who were able to serve their country. The counsel for the defendant declared the Duke's act was the result of a generous impulse and would be an honor to him throughout his life. He hoped in the hearts Frenchmen would have many such children to defend her.

After the trial [illegible] a large crowd gathered about the [illegible] and shouted for the Duke. Their cries were met by counter cheers for the republic and "Down with the Duke of Orleans!" The guards were [illegible] to restore order [illegible] some time. Twenty-five arrests were made.

Quite a large number of the Maine Central employes who could be spared went from this city and other points along the line yesterday to attend the first annual concert and ball of the Maine Central Relief Association, at City Hall, Portland, last night. It was expected that the occasion would be a brilliant one. Before the dancing a concert of an hour's duration was to have been given by Chandler's Band and the Schubert Quartette.

A horse belonging to Mr. James Swett, the Columbia street livery stable keeper, became frightened yesterday afternoon, while standing in West Market Square and ran off through the square and over the bridge and down Exchange street at a very rapid rate. He was stopped part way down Exchange street. During the progress of the runaway the sleigh was overturned and the top was broken off. Otherwise but little damage was done.

A wire from the electric light station was strung across the river from a point at the foot of Exchange street to the new church of the First Congregational society, and the city hall in Brewer yesterday. Both these buildings will be lighted by electricity, and have already been wired. The church will have quite a large number of incandescent lights, which will be turned on for the first time upon the occasion of the inside carnival to be given there, on the 19th of this month.

He represents the largest amount of wild lands yet given a hearing before the Commission.

[illegible], Reporter.

Wednesday, February 12th.

The second trial of Charles E. Gilman of East Corinth, was begun at the Supreme Judicial Court here today, and there was quite a large attendance of those interested in the proceedings. Chief Justice Peters came in at 9.45 and the work of obtaining a jury was begun. County Attorney Bailey appeared for the government, and Col. Jasper Hutchings and F. H. Appleton, Esq., for the respondent. The following jury was finally empanelled:

Charles E. Foster, Dixmont.
Fred [illegible], Burlington.
[illegible] Fernald, Argyle.
[illegible], Bangor.
William F. Mower, Corinna.

A recess was taken, after which the witness' testimony was continued.

John Savage, of East Corinth, was the next witness called. He has been in the insurance business. He testified in regard to the application of Gilman for insurance which has already been published. Gilman gave him as a reason for applying for insurance that the 4th of July was coming and the boys would be [illegible] with their fire crackers. [illegible] that the application was [illegible] [illegible] as the 4th of July was passed and he didn't care much about the matter.

The Celebration on Lincoln's Birthday Under the Auspices of the Sons of Veterans.

In accordance with the general order from headquarters, Union Defenders Day was celebrated last evening by Daniel Chaplin Camp, Sons of Veterans in a most appropriate and interesting manner. As the day was also Lincoln's Birthday, the occasion was doubly significant, and the speeches made by the speakers were chiefly concerning the martyred President. The exercises were exceedingly well arranged and carried out by the camp, the members of which are to be highly commended for the evident enthusiasm with which they undertook to carrying out the celebration. [illegible]

[illegible]

Capt. F. L. Bartlett, of the Sons of Veterans, presiding in the absence of Mayor [illegible], who was unable to be present, and calling the assemblage to order [illegible] [illegible] of the programme [illegible] singing of "America" by the audience, accompanied by the Arbutus [illegible] Quartette. The quartette then rendered a selection with excellent effect. At its conclusion Capt. Bartlett read a note of regret at being obliged to be absent on account of a previous engagement, from Gen. H. L. Mitchell, who was to have been one of the speakers. In the note General Mitchell referred to the incentive to a young man which the life of Abraham Lincoln, who rose from the humblest to the highest position, offers.

Capt. Bartlett introduced ex-Vice President Hamlin in a few appropriate words.

Mr. Hamlin said that when he heard that the Sons of Veterans had made arrangements for celebrating the birthday of Abraham Lincoln he was more than glad, he was gratified, for it is a most fitting thing to commemorate the great. What act of greater moment is there than to keep in mind the deeds of those who helped save the country? The Sons of Veterans are deserving of great credit for inaugurating this celebration of the birthday of Lincoln. When we speak of Abraham Lincoln it is appropriate to connect his name with that of Washington. If Washington by his prudence and sagacity helped to lay the foundation of this government, Abraham Lincoln aided in saving it from destruction. What a difference there was in the armies of the two men. One was made up of [illegible], the other of [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible]

Dr. D. A. Robinson was next called upon. He said that as he had spoken upon the same subject at a previous celebration, he would make [illegible] remarks. He referred to the interest which all had taken in the reminiscences of Abraham Lincoln, given by Mr. Hamlin upon that and a former occasion, and thought that, notwithstanding Mr. Hamlin's long and honorable public services, there was one duty which he owed to the public, and that was to write a book, giving his recollections of public men and National affairs. Dr. Robinson concluded by relating several stories of Lincoln, which well illustrated his wit and ready adaptability to circumstances. He received hearty applause at the conclusion of his remarks.

The quartette then rendered a pleasing selection. Prof. John S. Sewall, of the Theological Seminary, who was in the audience, was called upon. He said he was unprepared to make a speech, as he was not expecting to be called upon, but he expressed his pleasure at being present, and his interest in the celebration and the Sons of Veterans who arranged it.

The quartette then played another selection, which was the concluding feature of the order of exercises.

The Children's Supper of the Y. M. C. A. Boys Yesterday Afternoon.

The members of the Boys' Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association to the number of one hundred and twenty-five met in Y. M. C. A. Hall yesterday afternoon for the annual supper. The first part of the programme was a most interesting and helpful talk on "Growing Boys" by Rev. T. H. Dunfield, who proceeded to show them in a way which they could understand; first, the law of growth as shown in the grain, the pet animals, the boys, etc. The boys, however, grow also in the mind. A lesson in the primer, to learn the A. B. C. etc. [illegible] [illegible] The second topic was the purpose of growth. [illegible]

[illegible]

The applause which greeted Mr. Dunfield at the close of his interesting talk showed in a pleasant way how heartily the boys enjoyed his very practical remarks, which must result in doing them good. After the remarks came the following musical and literary programme: Bone solo, Master Bessie Merriam; piano solo, Miss Lena Tewksbury; reading, Mr. Thomas Hunt; song, Miss Mary Hodges, accompanied by Miss Bessie Waller; banjo solo, Mr. E. L. Whitten; piano solo, Miss Lena Tewksbury. All the selections were heartily received and the performers kindly responded to the recall.

The last part of the programme was ice cream and cake, furnished by the ladies who had charge of this most successful entertainment for the benefit of our boys, who are so soon to be the controlling influence in our city.

The ladies who had the afternoon work in charge were: Miss R. J. Porter, chairman; Mrs. C. F. Bragg, Mrs. Frank E. Taylor, Mrs. Nathan Whitman, Mrs. R. C. Hollins, Mrs. H. A. Williams, Mrs. A. C. Sawyer, Mrs. Lewis C. Davis, Mrs. F. H. Noble and Miss Nellie Swett.

THE ICE INDUSTRY.

Observations on the Penobscot, Kennebec and Hudson River Operations.

Ice harvesting is going on rapidly on the river, and thus far this week the crews have been enabled to get in some of their best work, as the conditions have been favorable. At the present time it looks as though there would be little ice in the river to go out in the spring, as it will be about all in the ice houses. E. H. & M. Rollins are erecting a new stack near their mill in Brewer and will fill it with ice if possible. The stack being erected upon the wharf of the Boston and Bangor Steamship Company by Mr. John F. Woodman and others is progressing well and will be finished in a short time. Ice harvesting will be begun there shortly. Mr. A. H. Babcock is having his field opposite the ferry way scraped and will begin cutting soon. Several new firms have been formed lately and they will harvest quite a large quantity of ice. Several New York and Providence firms have been in the city lately bargaining for and buying ice, which here commands a good price.

As each day passes with no news of cutting ice on the Hudson, the outlook [illegible] more [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible]

The [illegible] continues, however, and ice is being crowded into every available place by crews of men as large as can be secured. There is no longer so much of a demand to work on the ice for men. The greatest trouble is to secure carpenters and lumber for the new houses and stacks which ice men from other places are anxious to build. All saw mills which are now running are crowded with orders requiring several weeks to fill.

A 30,000 ton stack is to be erected by the Ridgewood Ice Company of Boston on the Charles Bradstreet farm opposite Nahumkeag Island. The Bradstreet Bros. of South Gardiner [illegible] [illegible] south of the [illegible] house of the Knickerbocker Co. Tuesday and [illegible] that they will stack ice on the site commencing operations immediately. The Knickerbocker Company, which has recently purchased the Dr. Underwood houses, will immediately commence filling them. Haynes & Lawrence have asked for permission to erect a stack on the east side of their Randolph houses and will probably put up several thousand tons.

Buyers are offering $3.75 per ton for ice but dealers believe that better prices can be secured and are not selling freely as yet. Many New York ice men who are there would take large contracts at $3.50 or $3.25 per ton but are [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Around the World in 72 Days

In an accomplished feat, but the little Miss who undertook the journey had to keep her wits about her. Nelly Bly never missed an opportunity. If she had, defeat and disappointment would have been hers, instead of success. The moral to be drawn from this trial trip is, never miss chances or opportunities that may result in personal benefit. We are going to benefit you if you will accept our offers.

This time of the year is what is known to business and particularly to the House Furnishing Stores, as the dull season. As far as this Company is concerned it knows no dull season. Its management being of a lively turn of mind and always seeking opportunities to increase the Company's business makes extra inducements at such seasons [illegible] trade [illegible]. This year a new departure has been made by introducing Special Sales at such points as are most centrally located. Last week Portland was the centre of attraction to thousands of customers who, after consulting our advertisement, decided that such prices as were offered were too good to miss. Have you seen the papers? Have you read the wonderful cut in prices? In our business carpets are generally the leading article; the ladies never seem to tire of carpet bargains, so we throw in some of our best all wool carpets, never heeding what they cost so long as the price would make sales.

Next week, commencing Tuesday, the 11th of February, we shall hold a five days' Special Sale in Bangor. Here are a few prices to [illegible]: Extra super all wool carpets 45 cents per yard. Tapestry Brussels at the same price. Body Brussels at 65 cents. Velvets at 75 cents; Rugs given away or sold at less than they cost to make. Chamber Sets in Ash reduced from $18 to $12.50; Oak Chamber Sets at $25. Draperies in the Tapestry patterns at $2.75. Parlor Sets in Plush at $35, in Haircloth at $30. And remember there is no old stock; every article is of latest styles. A clear gain to the purchaser of from 25 to 40 per cent. We shall lose a few dollars, but we shall make a host of friends and permanent customers. You will never be able to say that fortune came your way and forgot to knock at your door. Don't neglect an opportunity of this kind, but attend the sale before Saturday, Feb. 15th, get what you want at nearly half regular price. Two dollars for one [illegible], as we offer beats all the Lotteries in creation. Study your comfort, add to your homes that which is a source of pleasure and lasting; that which will bring happiness to your friends. There will, of course be great opposition to this Special Sale; you will be told that the furniture is no good, that it is impossible to sell new Carpets, Draperies and Rugs at the prices, but we give you credit for having as much common sense as those who do all this foolish talking. Examine the goods carefully before you buy. The prices are astonishing we admit, but we are prepared to guarantee all we sell. What need you care how much we lose, so long as you get the benefit and buy goods cheaper than wholesale prices.

In addition to the unheard of prices, we also gladly offer free Railroad Fares from any R. R. station within 100 miles of Bangor, our only stipulation being that we should expect the persons whose fares we paid to buy goods to the following amounts:

[illegible]

These fares mean to Bangor and return. Kindly understand, these amounts for fares will be deducted from your purchase. The goods will be delivered, freight prepaid, to your nearest railroad station, and the price of these goods will be from 30 to 50 per cent less than regular prices.

It would be unfair to the Bangor citizens to pay fares to out-of-town residents and charge them the same price for goods, therefore we shall give a present of a Rug or some other article, according to the amount of the purchase, which will be in value about the same as the railroad fares.

Wait till Tuesday next, Feb. 11th, and show by your attendance that our efforts are appreciated.

Split Gold Coins.

"Two tens for twenty, please," said a gentleman to the cashier in the county treasurer's office.

The cashier took the "twenty" and rung it on the counter. It had that peculiar dead ring that characterizes counterfeit coins. He rung it a second time and then inspected it carefully.

"Is that bogus?" asked the owner of the coin.

"Oh, no," answered the cashier; "it's good as wheat, but split."

Continuing, he said: "That is the first split twenty I ever ran across. The stamping machine at the mint sometimes comes down too hard on the coins and splits them; but it is seldom the larger coins split. It's mostly 'fives' that split. But they are very careful at the mint and keep every split coin they find. Here in the thousands of dollars handled here every year I rarely find a split coin. I don't think I've found more than four or five in a year, and, as I say, the coins were mostly $5 pieces."

The split $20 piece looked perfect, and, so far as the eye could detect, bore no flaw of any kind. The only fault was, it was in the "ring," and the split made it sound "dead" when thrown on the counter.—San Francisco Examiner.

For the Arithmeticians.

Talk about mathematical puzzles! Here is one that beats out the hen-and-a-half, egg-and-a-half algebraical nightmare. On a Rondo street car Alderman Patrick Kavanagh put a quarter into the change box in the front door. An instant before a young lady had deposited a dime in the same receptacle. The driver returned from the outside two change packages, a blue and a white one, simultaneously. With true gallantry Mr. Kavanagh waited for the young lady to help herself, which she did, inadvertently taking out the blue one, and, by mistake, dropping two dimes into the "Pay Here" look box. Kavanagh demanded his change, but the driver obdurately refused to give any more. Hard words ensued, to the great embarrassment of the lady, and the alderman refused to take the ten cent package, which remained in the possession of the company. Kavanagh, of course, paid no more for his ride; the young lady paid twenty cents, and now how much was the company ahead on the deal?—Chester (Pa.) Local News.

Cowhide Horseshoes.

In England, and on many parts of the continent, they have been for a long time using the Yates horseshoe, one made by compressing common cowhide. It is composed of three thicknesses of the cow skin, pressed into a steel mould, and then subjected to a chemical preparation. It is claimed for it that it is much lighter, that it lasts longer, and that split hoofs are never known in horses using it. It is perfectly smooth on the bottom, no calks being required, the shoe adhering firmly on the most polished surface. It entirely prevents many sprains, the horses' steps being lighter and easier. [illegible] Perhaps some American genius will give us a paper horseshoe, who knows?—St. Louis Republican.

Social Life in Russia as Described by the Princess Engalitcheff.

The Russian princess, Engalitcheff, gave a very pleasant talk to the people who filled the Woman's union to overflowing. Her subject was "Social Life in Russia," which meant, of course, social high life, for she told her audience of [illegible] class. She began by saying that social life was similar everywhere, except as it was modified by aristocratic or democratic governments. The long severe winters of Russia, as far north as St. Petersburg, are very favorable to [illegible]. To the south the climate is very mild, and in the Crimea the wet and dry seasons suggest the tropics. [illegible]

In summer, said the lecturer, St. Petersburg is deserted. Everybody, even the [illegible]. By the last of May or the first of June the town is shut up. The schools close and there is no life again till in the fall. [illegible]

IF YOU WISH TO BE HEALTHY FILTER THE WATER YOU DRINK.

THERE IS NO GREATER BLESSING THAN GOOD WATER. Men have lived without FOOD for FORTY DAYS; but no man ever abstained from water for more than Nine Days and survived. Good Water is a source of Health and Vigor; Bad Water is a prolific source of Disease and Death. The very highest authority on Hygiene asserts that "this much seems to be certain: that as private investigations proceed, and, indeed, in proportion to the care of the inquiry and the accuracy of the chemical examination, a continually increasing class of diseases is found to be connected with the use of BAD WATER."

Disease Germs.

The most dangerous impurities in drinking water are the so-called Disease Germs. The best authorities hold that certain diseases known as ZYMOTIC DISEASES, are propagated or transmitted by a peculiar class of low organisms, which find their way into the system through the medium of air, food and water, especially by water. Of these diseases, Malarial Fevers, Typhoid Fever, Scarlet Fever, Cholera and Diphtheria are the most notable. It is believed by many who have studied these subjects, that Typhoid Fever, Scarlet Fever, and Diphtheria will never attack those who habitually use, for all purposes, properly filtered water.
